

STAY WARM THIS WINTER

Home heating assistance program accepting applications

The Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program, or LIHEAP, helps low-income individuals and families with winter home heating costs.

Funded by the federal government and administered by the state, eligibility is based on family income. Applicants do NOT have to be on welfare to receive this heating assistance, NOR will any lien be placed on a person's property if he or she receives this help.

There are two types of assistance: cash grants and crisis grants. Cash grants help with home heating bills. Crisis grants are for people who are facing emergency situations, such as a broken furnace or an unexpected fuel shortage.

For eligibility, one's total household income must fall within the following guidelines based on household size.

Household Size	Income Limits Cash/Crisis Program
1	$18,210
2	$24,690
3	$31,170
4	$37,650
For households larger than 4, please call any of my offices for the income limits.
